EXCLUDED FROM HIS OWN HOUSE.

How Senator William A. Clark, the Montana multi-millionaire, came to be kept out of his magnificent new Fifth avenue residence in New York by a watchman, and how he had to leave without being able to show his new home to a party of friends, is a story over which workmen about the great palace at Seventy-seventh street are chuckling.

The residence of the Montava millionaire, which stands at the northeast corner of Seventy-seventh street and Fifth avenue, has been in process of construc-tion for four years, and it is said that it will take three years more to complete it. It has cost $3,000,000 already and before it is finished it may cost $3,000,-000 more. A day or two ago the Senator invited some friends to accompany him to the house for the purpose of inspecting it. The Senator was lightly bounding up it. The Senator was lightly bounding up the massive steps to the great front dor when the watchman espied him. The watchman had never seen the United States Senator from Montana, and consequently failed to recognize the bushy-whiskered man as the owner of the house he was guarding.

"Hey!" yelled the watchman, hurrying toward the steen.

"I own the building," announced Senator Clark, in tones of some surprise. "Say," said the watchman, swinging his club and winking confidentially at the Senator, "I'm on this job three years, and if I behave myself I can stay here three years more, dye see? No 'con'

game like that for me, Senator Clark looked very much con-lused, but finally bethought himself and pulled out a small card.

"My name is Clark," he said; "here is my card." On the card appeared this: "Senator William A. Clark."

WIFE REMOVED APPENDIX .- Advices just received from China state that Dr. W. H. Logan, formerly of Bethany, Ill., has entirely recovered from an attack of appendicitis and returned to his station and resumed his work. Dr. Logan and his wife have been missionaries in China for a number of years. They were forced to flee from the country during the Boxer troubles, coming to Bethany, where the physician practiced his pro-fession until peace had been restored, when he returned to his former station in China and again took up the work of a missionary physician. The point where Dr. and Mrs. Logan look after the welfare of their converts is 800 miles from the nearest place where an American or European physician is located.

A short time ago Dr. Logan was attacked by an illness which rapidly developed into an acute attack of appendicitis. Realizing that his only hope for recovery lay in an operation, involv-ing the removal of the vermiform appen-dix, Dr. Logan called his wife and im-parted to her his diagnosis of his own case. Mrs. Logan, being a trained nurse, began the preparations for an operation. Unassisted and guided only by the in-structions given her before her husband
